EXCITEMENT IN ROCHESTER.

The Commotion Caused by the Statement of a Physician.

An unusual article from the Rochester N. Y. Democrat and Chronicle, was recently published in this paper, and was a subject of much comment. That the article caused even more commotion in Rochester, the following from the same paper shows:

Dr. B. Henion, who is well-known not only in Rochester but in nearly every part of America, sent an extended article to this paper a few days since which was duly published, detailing his remarkable experience and researches in the cure of Bright's disease. It would be impossible to enumerate the personal enquiries which have been made at our office as to the validity of the article, but they have been so numerous that we deemed necessary of the subject we deemed necessary.

With this end in view a representative of this paper called on Dr. Henion, at his residence, when the following interview occurred: "That article of yours, Doctor, has been quite a whirlwind. And the statements about the terrible condition you were in, and the way you were rescued such as you can sustain?"

"Every one of them and many additional ones, was brought about by neglecting the first and most simple symptoms. I did not think I was sick. It is true I had frequent headaches, felt tired most of the time; could eat nothing one day and was ravenous the next; felt dull and my stomach was out of order, but I did not think it meant anything serious."

"The medical profession has been treating symptoms instead of diseases for years, and it is high time it ceased. The symptoms which you mentioned on any unusual action or irritation of the water channels, indicate the approach of kidney disease; more that a cough announces the coming of consumption. We do treat the lung, but not the lung itself. We should not waste our time trying to relieve the headache, pains about the body or other symptoms, but go directly to the kidneys, the source of most of the ailments."

"This, then, is what you meant when you said more than half the deaths which occur arise from Bright's disease, is it Doctor?"

"Precisely. Thousands of diseases are torturing people to-day, which in reality are Bright's disease. In my own form of Bright's disease, a Hydrocephalic monster, and slightest symptoms should strike terror to every one who has them. I can look back and recall hundreds of deaths which physicians declared at the time were caused by paralysis, apoplexy, heart disease, pneumonia, malarial fever and other common complaints which I see now were caused by Bright's disease."

"And did all these cases have simple symptoms at first?"

"Every one of them, and might have been cured as I was by the timely use of the same remedy. I am getting my eyes thoroughly opened in this regard and think I am helping others to see the parts and their possible danger also."

Mr. Warner, who was visited at his establishment on N. St. Paul street, spoke very earnestly:

"It is true that Bright's disease has increased rapidly in this world, by reliable statistics, that from '70 to '80 its growth was over 250 per cent. Look at the prominent men it has carried off, and is taking off every year, for while many are dying apparently of paralysis and apoplexy, they are really victims of kidney disorder, which causes heart disease, paralysis, apoplexy, etc. Nearly every week the papers record the death of some prominent man from this scourge. Recently, however, the case has been checked and I attribute this to the general use of my remedy."

"Do you think many people are afflicted with it to-day who do not realize it?"

A prominent professor in a New Orleans medical college was lecturing before his class on the subject of Bright's disease. He had various fluids under microscopic analysis and was showing the students what the indications of the disease were. "And now, gentleman," he said, "as we have seen the unhealthy indications, I will show you how it appears in a state of perfect health," and he submitted his own fluid to the microscope. He then turned to his countenance suddenly changed—his color and command both left him and in a trembling voice he said: "Gentlemen, I have made a painful discovery; and in less than a year was he dead. The slightest indications of any kidney disease, I think, should be enough to strike terror to any one."

"You know of Dr. Henion's case?"

"Yes, I have both read and heard of it."

"It was very wonderful is it not?"

"No more so, than a great many others that have come to my notice as having been cured by the same means."

"You believe then that Bright's disease can be cured?"

"I know it can. I know it from my own and the experience of thousands of prominent persons who were given up as lost by both their physicians and friends."

"You speak of your own experience what was it?"

"A fearful one. I had felt languid and unfitted for business for years. I did not know what ailed me. When, however, I found it was Bright's disease, I thought there was no difficulty. I thought there was little hope and so did the doctors. I have since learned that one of the physicians of this city pointed me out to a gentleman on the street and said, 'Look there goes a man who will be dead within a year.' I believe his words would have proved true if I had not fortunately used the remedy I now know as Warner's Safe Cure."

Amusements.

ON THE FRONTIER.

That the large and delighted audience enjoyed the performance was made evident by the loud and continued applause which greeted the valiant, heroic, patriotic and stirring scenes which abounded in the play presented, Mrs. W. F. Johnson's stirring melodrama, "On the Frontier." As the title indicates, it is one of those realistic mountain histories which abound in heroic and manly performances. The audience, said to be in the Bluegrass Hills, during the days of its early settlement, and the little community there are constantly on the qui vive against Indian attack. Jack Osborne (James M. Hardie) is a scout, trapper and guide, the hero of the play. He has a wife, a son and a noble friend in every quality. Col. Austin, who has a body of soldiers at the settlement, learns that the troops on the Yellowstone are in danger, and that he must succor them. He leaves his daughter Rose in the care of Osborne, while Jack acts as the Colonel's guide. An unprincipled scoundrel, Morley, by name, has fallen in love with Rose. He hates Jack as well, and determines to possess the girl and destroy his foe, and therefore conspires with the Indian maiden named Blueface (Sopha) in plotting, loving Jack and being loved in return. Many interesting situations follow—the attack upon settlement, the brave defense, the burning of the Osborne homestead, the capture of the girl, and the Indian's return to learn that they are sisters. Then Jack and his ranger pursue the redskins, and in the midst of fire and flames the victims are rescued. In the engagement Jack meets Morley, and in a desperate fight kills him. The Indians developed a dance, and the curtain descended upon a happy re-union. To say that such artists as James M. Hardie and Sara Von Leer assumed the principal characters is to speak of the best and finest acting. The whole supporting company is excellent and the scenery is fine. —Brooklyn Citizen.

At the Opra House to-night.

THE WIFE.

I should say that the prevailing impression of the performance of "The Wife" is tone.

It pervades everything and subdues the stage with quiet subdued harmony, which forces the conviction that the work is rightly and admirably done without giving any particular reason for the conviction. All one knows is that the scenes are effective, that there is absolutely no offense in the performance; and that for some reason the development of the play, or perhaps better, the emotions of the persons in the drama so quietly and yet so intensely expressed, chain the attention.

Manager Daniel Frohman has promised to stage the play here in an elaborate manner as it was done in New York.

W. HUENNEFELD.

People can hardly believe it.

JENKINSVILLE, ILL., May 30th, 1888.
I take pleasure to let you know that my boy is still all right, he had not had any of the spasms for over a year. I am very glad to say I still believe in the fact that he had as many as 15 a day or more. I believe he was a very nervous child. I have had him under my care for a number of spasms until last December, after which they came in regular succession, and I had 5 doctors to see him, and they could not find out what was the matter. I had despair of his ever getting well, until I got Pastor Komig's Nerve Tonic, and put a bottle in his mouth. He got quite well and has not had the least sign of spasms since. —
MRS. E. LENTON.

I testify to the facts as stated above to be strictly true.

FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT

FRANKFORT, FEBRUARY 14, 1891.

Granted Pensions.

Levi Berry and William Bush, of this city, were granted pensions, on Tuesday, for service in the late war.

Seeking a Nomination.

Attorney General P. W. Hardin, of this city, has announced himself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Next Month.

Rumor hath it that a young gentleman sojourning in the western part of the State will come to this city to claim a bride from among the young ladies of the South Side some time in March.

Lexington Sale.

Quite a number of the horse men of this county have been attending the sale of horses in Lexington this week and many of them have sold a portion of their stock at the same, fair prices being realized.

Holds On.

The ground hog winter still continues and the weather the first of his week demonstrated the wisdom of his hogship in again seeking his hold on the second of this month. As a weather prophet the shadow of the ground hog never grows less.

Cottage Sold.

Mr. J. H. Williamson has sold his new two-story cottage on Third street, between Steele and Conway, to Miss Ruth Robinson for two thousand dollars cash. Miss Robinson will take possession next week and remove there to reside.

Violated His Parole.

Russell Brown, a negro sent to the Penitentiary from Lexington upon the charge of manslaughter, who was released on parole after serving four months of his time, was returned to the Pen, on Monday, by order of the Governor, having violated the terms of his parole.

Napie Wanted.

"A Friend," who sent us a communication from Polsgrove, is requested to send his name to this office and he will receive the information he desires. As we have already published one obituary of the person upon whose death he writes, we hardly think another desirable.

Suburban Residence Sold.

Mr. John C. Peden has purchased of Mr. R. W. Smith his residence on Thorpe Hill for twenty-five hundred dollars. This was a great bargain, as the place cost Mr. Smith over three thousand dollars and the house has been built but little more than a year. Mr. Peden took possession last week and moved in.

ENTITLED TO THE BEST.

All are entitled to the best their money will buy, so every family should have, it once, a bottle of the best family remedy. Syrup of Figs, to cleanse the system when costive or bilious. For sale in 50c and $1.00 bottles by all leading druggists. 22-m.

The Mask Hop.

The masquerade hop given by the German Benevolent Society at the Capital Hotel on Monday night was a notable event in the whole series of the winter season of gaiety, prior to the advent of the Lenten season. Everything was conducted in strictly first-class style and the entire management paid assiduous attention to the vast assemblage. There were about fifty couples on the floor at one time, while the number of spectators who did not participate in the dance was very large. The music furnished was delightful and those present enjoyed themselves until near the dawn of Tuesday.

Voice From Bowling Green.

The following communication to the Louisville Times of Tuesday afternoon, was headed "Kendall's Kick." As the writer displays a great deal of "horse sense," he has a perfect right to be heard, so here he will continue to do so vigorously.

It strikes me—as it must strike every one of the State not personally and privately interested in the matter—that it is a piece of the merest absurdity in that "august body," the Constitutional Convention, to consider one moment of its time considering the removal of the State Capital.

For all practicable and legitimate purposes; for all purposes for which the Capital was made to serve, there is no place better. And this is for its location that the place it now is.

This is a proposition so open, so simple and plain, that all argument on the point appears the utmost superfluous and ridiculous.

If we consider the alleged reasons of the Lexington or the Louisville lobby, the Constitutional Convention should decide to move the Capital to either one of these cities, then with a parity of logic the Capital might be moved to Beattyville, or to any other point in the State. For as sound reasons can be given for a perpetual removal of the Capital as are now being urged for its removal from Frankfort.

These "Commercial Clubs," which send out their lobbies from the different cities wanting the Capital, I would say: "What is your motive for wanting the Capital moved? Is it the interest of your city? Is it your heart? Or do you really look over the interest of the State and only have in view the commercial and real estate interests of your own particular city? If the former, your patriotism is far more to be praised than your sagacity. If the latter be your motive, then your sagacity is far more to be praised than your patriotism."

The settled motto is quiet, the more of a rural air a man may breathe, the better suited is it a location for the State Capital; for such a location is, in the greatest degree, possible, accessible to the various schools and visiting agencies, which, for our purposes, should continually gather about and beset a Capital situated in a large city. Surely we can not be too solicitous in seeing to the wholesomeness and safety of the social and moral environment of the fountain of State Government, that thereby all things possible may conduce to the purity of the water that issue therefrom. This fact is overlooked by those who, for private and individual ends, are striving to have the Capital moved from Frankfort to some larger city.

Some, when asked why they want the Capital moved, answer, saying, "Frankfort is such a 'dead and out-of-the-way place little place?'" It is thus such people give an argument against themselves. They forget that Frankfort was not selected with a view to its being a dead and out-of-the-way place.

Remember that the most gay, cosmopolitan Capital the world has ever known has been the government seat of despots. When the Capital of a country becomes a social centre, it has become at the same time a university, inasmuch as all things possible may conduce to the purity of the water that issue therefrom.

Never mind about the comparative humbleness and unpretentiousness of the Capital building. The people are making no complaint about it, and the people are anxious to see that their common tax made as low as is consistent with a wise, just and economical expense of State, and thereby a little home-grown capital built in their pockets, is not a more splendid and honorably appearing Capital building, but the ability and conduct of public servants who are sent to Frankfort as to honor the one who is sent to the other.

KENDALL, BOWLING GREEN, KY., Feb. 9.

A Valuable Discovery.

Dr. Brown Seagard's elixir of youth may be an important discovery, but every one knows that Dr. Franklin Mew's New Heart Cure certainly is. It has given thousands of afflicted with strong heart disease new leases of life. Druggists who can observe its effects on many customers, every where speak very highly of it. Mr. John Weaver, of Knighton, Ind., says: "I have sold many of Dr. Mew's Cure and have received many good reports." O. Monroe, of Dunnirk, N. Y., reports large sales. "And the best part of it is every bottle has given satisfaction." Sold and guaranteed by J. W. Taylor.

Rafting.

A great many rafts of logs are now passing Beattyville, their way to Ford, Frankfort and other river points. Let us advise all the mills at these places to make hay while the sun shines, as it is only a question of a few months until the R. N. L. & B. will be completed to this point, and every log will be rafted down, practically all the timber that will come out of her three rivers. With facilities for shipping timber from the river, our friends down the river will either have to move their mills to Beattyville or quit business, as they will then be unable to compete with Beattyville prices. Be warned in time, come now to Beattyville; select your mill site and get every thing in order to move with the procession. Beattyville Enterprise.

IN MEMORIAM.

JACOB DEICHO was born in Campbell county, Virginia, January 5, 1812. At the age of eighteen he came to the State and had been a constable in the county of Campbell, and a member of the militia for many years, when God called him, and he died in the arms of Jesus.

Mr. Deicho was a good man, his wife still surviving him. His first wife was a Miss Palmer, and he was a good man and partner of his joys for a few brief years. The fruit of that union being Mr. James E. Deicho, of K. Y. Mrs. Deicho died in 1842, and Mr. Jet, who bore him five children, all of whom are now deceased, the oldest living, who died April 28, 1862, being a Miss. Mrs. Deicho, Mrs. Dr. G. F. Gaines, of Warsaw, K. Y., Mrs. J. C. of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Lee A. Owen, of Jet, K. Y.

He was singularly fortunate in the selection of his wife, though, having a wife who pleased and happy, and equipped with a systematic mind, and a good heart, to care for him, was all which is needed to accord to man.

To the end of his life he was kind in manner, content to work out life's problems as a humble citizen, and retiring but devout Christian. He died in peace, and his death came quietly, a fitting climax to an existence that was quiet and pure.

To the end of his life he was the sweet consolation that they can look to the Author and Finisher of their salvation for guidance, strength and hope, and to realize that they have gone before his wife, and to bind them closer to the blessed home, eternal beyond the skies.

L. A. O.

To the memory of our sister, Ella C. Newbold, who died Jan. 11, 1891, aged 29 years, 5 month and three days. These lines are tenderly dedicated.

What is life?

A narrow way?

That measures existence

To every man.

What is death?

An open door?

When the soul steps forth

To the other shore?

What is beyond?

That none can tell,

Beside the grave?

The curtain fell.

It is not given to mortal ken;

We know the now

Ever the then.

And men of learning,

Nor men of fire,

Can ever tell us

A sentence more.

And who is God?

Great nature's king.

Who lives and moves in every thing.

We feel His kiss

In the summer breeze,

He lives to us.

In the budding trees.

We see Him paint

The perfumed flower,

We catch His smile

In the rainbow shower.

We hear His voice

In the little bird,

And an answering chord

In our heart is stirred.

He speaks to us.

In the thunder's roll,

We read His work

In the starry scroll,

We see His hand.

In the coming storm.

He crests the billow.

Forgets His form.

In the purling brook

We see His face;

On the green grass,

His footprints trace,

We note His frown

On the bleeding cliff.

And mark His hand

In the earthquake's rift.

We feel His love

In the dead man's field

We gather the grain

From field to field.

Own His presence

Around, above,

And know that His name

Means only love.

What is the soul?

It is the essence

Made divine by God.

What is the mortal mind?

Two elements, for good or bad.

In each of us is always bad.

Both vice and virtue emanate.

From Him who did our souls create.

And only perfect life has been given.

Then there is no use for other heaven.

He who sits alone held sway.

We could not reach the perfect day.

There is no life.

So pure and free,

It needs no farther purity.

There is no soul so lost in

That God will not reclaim again.

Let us then weep

From His hand.

Impetuous is His command.

If to our souls some other power

Is given, in that heaven-born power,

We can not see, but trust in Him.

With him we'll press our vision dim.

From His eyes it emanates here.

He alone is man's mission here

On earth is known.

That mission ended, back it flies

To him who asked the sacrifice.

We can not give one reason why

We weep, we weep, you nor I.

We only look on nature's reign

And know that night

Is made in vain.

All has some purpose to fulfill.

For weal or woe,

For good or ill,

To us, to us, and wait our time,

To bear the distant tempests chime.

Of bells across the weeping shore,

Our soul will quit for earth no more.

We watched His hand

Withdraw the youngest of our hand,

With bitter grief our hearts must swell,

With still we wail,

That He will not come.

Blest was her life

And full of pain,

We would not have her back again.

For soon we, too, the wail will rend,

And dwell with her

In God, our friend.

MARY V. PAGE.

The senior proprietor of this paper has been subject to frequent colds for some time past, and used to call him up, if not doctorated at once. He finds that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is reliable. It opens the secretions, relieves the lungs, and restores the system to a healthy condition. If freely used, a severe cold will soon be contracted and before it has become settled in the system, it greatly lessens the attack and often cures in a single day what would otherwise have been a severe cold. ### Forks of Elkhorn.

Considerable winter the first of the week.

Regular service at the Christian Church to-night, to-morrow and to-morrow night at the regular hours.

Miss Mattie Ely has returned to her home in Lexington from a visit of several weeks to relatives in this community.

Our school is in a prosperous condition. Five new pupils enrolled last Monday. Four from Woodlake and one from Stamping Ground.

Mr. Jacob Cofer and family, after a year's residence in this place, left last Monday for their former home in Bath county.

Elkhorn has been on a boom twice during the last two or three weeks.

We report quite a number on the sick list. Dr. French is kept busy most of the time.

The F. & L. U. in our midst is in a prosperous condition. Quite a number of accessions each week.

Last Saturday and Sunday are days long to be remembered in the history of the Buck Run Baptist Church, the same being the occasion of the meeting of the Franklin County Mission Circle.

The programme was carried out as far as practicable. The report of the Executive Committee showed a healthy state of the financial workings of the church and the country.

Rev. W. C. Taylor, of Frankfort, preached Saturday morning and Rev. E. S. Alderman at night.

Sunday morning Rev. Baker, of Shelby county, preached and Bro. Alderman again at night. These sermons were characterized by a fervor and eloquence rarely enjoyed by a community in so short a time.

Mr. Salis Talbott, of Lexington, has returned home from a visit to his sister, Mrs. Julia Lucas.

Mrs. Dora Cleveland left Monday for Versailles, whether she was called to attend the bedside of her son who is reported very ill.

Mr. Willard Wilkerson, of Stamping Ground, was in our midst last Sunday and Monday.

The tobacco fever for the ensuing season has not yet taken fast hold on this community.

Rev. W. B. Cooper, of Lexington, preached an excellent sermon in the Baptist Church in this town.

Rev. W. G. Nevel, of Frankfort will preach at the Baptist Church in this place to-morrow at 3 o'clock p.m.
